

Meet Rebecca!

Dear Friends and Supporters,

My name is Rebecca Lepsik, and I am CureCervicalCancer's Program Director. Today marks my one month anniversary with this team, and I am thrilled to share some amazing news. I have been chosen as the recipient of the Leonard Hill Charitable Trust grant for CureCervicalCancer.

It is in the spirit of profound gratitude that I write you today to update you on all that has transpired since I joined the CureCervicalCancer team. I would like to begin by conveying how honored I am to have received this position. A career that enables one to become part of an international community helping those in need is nothing short of a dream come true. I could not be more proud of the work we do, knowing that we truly have a positive impact on the lives of women in the developing world.

This role is multifaceted, and I thoroughly enjoy its complex and challenging nature. In less than a week after I started this position, I joined the team on a trip to China. We participated in national maternal health conferences and shared our experiences using cryotherapy as a preventive treatment for early stages of cervical cancer. In less than a month, I will be leading a resupply and reeducation program in Haiti where we will be visiting our previously established clinics and certified trainees.

The CureCervicalCancer team and I are incredibly grateful for your continued support. Thank you for making our life-saving work possible. Together, we can fight this needless epidemic and make an impact in people's lives.

Warmly,

Rebecca Lepsik RN
